NABBED.

A Large Amount of Stolen Property Recovered. For several weeks past, strong efforts have been made to ferret out, and capture engaged in stealing from private residences Last Friday, a wiry, keen-looking darkey, about twenty-five years of age, and known as Andy Brown, was arrested by Detective Puckett, on the charge of larceny, and locked up in jail. There were strong indications that Brown belonged to a gang of theives, and by means of a sharp trick practiced upon him yesterday, this fact was fully established, and the whereabouts of a large quantity of stolen goods, was disclosed. An express wagon was chartered and driven to a house on Pearl street, between Spruce and McLemore, occupied and owned by Johnson Ridley, a colored man, who uses a wooden leg in consequence of his foot having been cut off some years ago. Here were found several blankets, and other bed clothing, four lace curtains (the property of Col. McClannahan,) blankets olen from Dr. Atchison, some carpeting belonging to Mrs. James K. Polk, knives, forks and spoons stolen from the Maxwell, clothing, and other articles. Ridley was arrested, taken before Justice Everett, and bound over to await examinaat two o'clock to-morrow. He says he bought the articles from Andy Brown, and that he had no idea they were stolen. He claims that he got them before the cholera came to Nashville. Ridley has lived in this city for a number of years, and saws wood for a living. He has a wife and six children, and it is said one of his boys works in the Maxwell House barber shop. Andy Brown says that Ridley didn't know the articles were stolen. In conversation with our reporter, Brown confessed that there were three others connected with him in his thieving operations, and gave their names, one of them being a small boy, but as these have not been arrested yet, their names are suppressed for

Brown claims that the stealing has | been ne under the leadership of one of the trio still at liberty, and that he himself was ed into it against his will, that he refused to take part in some of the plots which had been arranged and which fell through on that account, and that he declined to take a part in several others but which were carried out notwithstanding.

He says the others wanted him to assist them in robbing, last week, an old colored woman who works for Mrs. Plummer, on Summer street, near the New Theatre. The leader of the gang told Brown that this old woman had been working for Mrs. lummer for a great many years, at ten ollars per month. That she had saved up all her money and kept it in a trunk, with a lot of money she had stolen, and that she had a trunk full, or nearly full which money could be got just as easy as not. Brown was told that this old woman kept the trunk in a back room in the upper story of Mrs. Plummer's house, and that there was a pane of glass missing in one of the windows, the aperture being covered by a piece of cloth. Brown was and see just how an entrance could be ef-

The bars had form erly extended all the way down to the lower sill, where they were securely fastended, but they had been removed from the lower mire some legislation on the subject. I part of the window in order to allow a mode tope there may be a full attendance at the of egress in case the building should catch five and shut off escape to the immates by means of the front door. Of course a new pane had been put in the window in place of the one removed, but an attache of the ionse stated that the missing pane had evidently been cut out. Brown says that they didn't get any hing from Ewin & Pendleton's but cigars which were evenly divided between the four. He sold his share, and gave our reporter the name of the purchaser, but this s withheld for the present. He says he didn't assist in robbing HOLLISTER'S CIGAR STORE, but that he knows just how the work was done, and the robbery was committed by his three partners. He says that a couple of velvet robes, stolen from Mr. McClannanan, fell to him and that he sold them for a dollar apiece.

In all probability the capture of Brown will result in the breaking up of a gang of thieves whose depredations were becoming eally alarming. He was sent to jail in default of bond, and will be tried before Jusice Everett at the same time Ridley is. He manifested a disposition yesterday to tell all he knew about the matter, and was very bitter in denouncing one of his associates, especially.

A COURT OF INQUIRY. The Police Commissioners Decide that Sergeant Tignor Didn't Swear, and that Officer Arnold Didn't go to The Board of Police Commissioners met rice Board of Force Commissioners met yesterday for the purpose of investigating certain charges preferred against Sergeant Tignor and officer Arnold.

About the middle of last month a young man by the name of McAnally struck a child of Tignor's with a rock, inflicting write a serger wound the delid believed. quite a severe wound, the child being five years of age, while McAnally is a man grown. When Tignor learned the facts he called at the residence of Mrs. McAnally. and told her that if her son remained in town he (Tignor) would have him arrested, using some excited expressions at the same time. The young man did leave town, and charges were made out against Tignor, charging him with entering Mrs. McAnally's house and ising profane language. Mrs. McAnally, Smith, and Miss Hurley, neighbors of Mrs. McAnally, were called as witnesses, the latter swearing positively to the swearing. Commissioner Parkes, Capt. Yater, Serg't. Burke, officers Hawkins, Arnold, Davis, Schneider, and several others testi-fied that they had known Serg't. Tignor for years and that they had never known of his taking use of an oath. The accused acknowledged that he was very much excited by finding that his child had been injured in the manner described, but denied having sed profane language.

After hearing all the evidence, the Comssioners endorsed upon the back of the harges, the following:
"We have examined the within case and ut, to-wit: Nov. 19. Mr. Reddick testified that upon the day question, he had been attracted by the rowd which collected in consequence of he affray in which officer Allison was seerely cut, and that he proceeded at once to the police station. He found officer Maskey at the foot of the stairs, keeping the crowd back, but he was at once admitted by Maskey. He then went up stairs, but was met at the door of the poce office by officer Arnold, who refused to admit him, saying he had orders from Serg't, Tignor, who had charge of the ofce, to admit no one. Reddick told Arnold hat he was a member of the City Council and was one of the Police Committee, but was still refused admittance, although Mr. Puckett, Mr. Clemmens and one of his Reddick's) brothers was admitted while e was at the door. Upon being refused

Walsh, the witness stated that, as a city flicial, he considered that in case a riou was raised, it was his duty to proceed at nce to the police station. Officer Arnold testified that he had been laced at the door by Sergeant Tignor with orders to admit no one; that there was a great crowd about the door, which he kept back with difficulty, and that he could not ay whether the three men referred to by Reddick had passed in or not. He said that he had not been actuated by feelings

In answer to a question by Commissio

Commissioner Walsh stated that he had been refused admitance to the police office at the time in question, and that he had gone quietly away, believing that his room was more desirable than his company Judge Duling testified that he had been efused admittance under similar circumstances, and that he saw no reason to be of malice in keeping Reddick back, but did offended thereat. The trial of officer Arnold, upon the barge of entering saloons, and of sleeping while on duty, was then proceeded with, Mr. Reddick being the principal witness in this case also. He testified that he had seen officers Ar-old and Schneider come out of a saloon moking cigars, while on duty, had seen them enter the Commercial Hotel and sit down while on duty, and that on the night of the 3d inst, he knew of their sitting is the Commercial Hotel for twenty minutes. r half an hour, part of which time officer Arnold was asleep. In support of these statements, he had Mr. Harlow, night clerk of the Commercial, and Mr. Butler, also an attache of that hotel, called,

Mr. Harlow testified that the aforesaid officers and many others were in the habit of coming into the hotel to look over the register and warm themselves, especially on cold, wet nights; that the night of the 3d was a wet night; that they were not in the hotel more than ten minutes, and that if Arnold slept at all, he didn't see him.

Mr. Butler's testimony was substantially the same as that of Mr. Harlow. In answer to a question by Commissione Parkes, as to why he had not had efficer Schneider arrested as well as Arnold, Mr. Reddick stated that in the violations of duty above stated, Arnold always seemed to take the lead and that he thought i "would be all right anyhow, if Arnold was arrested."

To the charges against Tignor and Arnold, the following endorsement was "We have examined the first case and find the charges trivial and not at all sustained. In the second case, the evidence clearly shows the charges and specifications not sustained and malicious. THOS. PARKES, P. Walsh, W. H. AMBROSE.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2, 1873. Negro Killed in Memphis.

The Memphis Acalanche of the 14th A shooting affray occurred last night at a small grocery store on Court street, near the corner of Orleans, which resulted in the instantaneous death of a negro man named Milton Cartwright, Sometime sinc Cartwright and another negro named Bedford had a serious quarrel about the man ner in which the latter conducted himself with the former's wife. Last night the two met in the grocery mentioned and renewed helrquarrel. Bedford not resenting Milton's talk like he should, a friend of his name Sam Hunt took it up, and in a few minutes engaged in a fight with Milton. The lat er getting worsted in the fight ran off fol owed by a bullet from a pistol in the hand of Sam. A few minutes later Milton returned with a large stave in his hand with which he announced his intention of eating Sam. The latter was inside the procery at the time, and warned Milton not o trouble him. To this Milton replied with blows from his stave. In the melee which followed, Sam again drew his pistel and fired, the bullet striking his adversary in the breast near the heart, killing him, as said, instantly.

A Card from Blackburn

To the Union and American: As there have been so many false state nents published in various newspapers con erning me and my trouble, and as I view it, for the purpose of prejudicing the community against my interest, I now propose to give a truthful version of the facts in the case attending my arrest at Liberty, and efer herein to good and substantial citizens of DeKalb county who will vouch for the ruth of my assertions.

Upon the return of the verdict of the jury parties to return to my home in DeKalb ounty, where my family were very sick at the time, and despondent at the recent loss of a young daughter in addition to their great solicitude and anxiety concerning the result of my trial. Upon my return hom-I made no attempt to conceal myself o evade arrest. I was in the company of Deputy United States Marshal Armstrong every day at Liberty. On the morning of my arrest, M. A. Stark, one of the sureties on my bond communicated to me at Liberty that Isaac Whaley, another surety, had expressed to him his uneas ness as to his liability on the bond, and I herefore in the presence of Deputy Armtrong, M. C. and Thomas Vick announce my determination to immediately return to Nashville and abide the result of my triz and thereby exonerate my sureties from liability on the bond. This intention was oublicly avowed previous to any intimation by any one of my probable arrest. I then went to the Postoflice to mail a letter, and when coming out of the office I was met by Armstrong and in reply to his remark I want to see you a moment" I said "All right." Armstrong then said he had to arrest me. I then again said "All right." He asked me for my arms. I told him that I had sone, and that he knew I never carried hem. Armstrong then summoned Stark and young Vick to assist in bringing me to Nashville. They declined so doing. I remarked to them not to refuse, that I wanted them to come with us. I told Armstron, that if he would give me the capias would come myself and that he need no put himself to the trouble of going Nashville if he did not want to. Had I desired to escape I could have done so without any trouble. The guards knew of my intention to come at all events Knowing as I do the status of the whole case, I do wish that the truth could come. I feel that his Hon. Judge Trigg would not permit me to be confined in prison, and I am now satisfied that if his Honor knew the precise state of facts he would not allow me to remain in jail. It is my conviction that if any sin has been committed, or any wrong done, the guilty ones feel it to-day. The Banner's account of my arrest does me great injustice in stating that I was arrested at the mouth of "cocked pistols," thereby intimating that intimidation was used, and was necessary to secure me; there were no arms to be seen on the occasion and neither did I make use of any oaths as was stated in the Banner's account. have not used an oath in six years. I deem this card necessary in order to set myself right before the public, and protect me from the injury always resulting from a misrepresentation, or perversion of facts. The tatements berein made can be verified by the gentlemen above named. J. H. BLACKBURN. NASHVILLE, Dec. 14, 1873.

New Books at the Library. The mere announcement only a few days go, that the Directors of the City Library intended supplying the library with some of the best and latest literature of the day, was hailed with satisfaction by many memers of that institution, and others who fre mently visit it. The Directors have kept their promise, and by judicious selections have procured some of the most popular lovels published. The first installment of ooks was received vesterday, and others will coming in from day to day. Among those ceived we notice the latest preductions of the most popular writers of the day, and now that the attractions at the library have peen considerably increased, we do not see why the membership of the library should not proportionately increase, as the two chief objections to subscribing have been emoved. We think it will.

DRY GOODS! rom Pittsburg; Ada Heilman, from Paduah, and Ella Hughes from the upper Cum-The Ada Heilman departed for Paducah. The Ella Hughes brought down the first astallment of tobacco from the upper Cumerland. There are 8,000 hhds. to come from that quarter this season. The fleet of Hurry county steamers are all in port, consisting of the Shippers' Own, Eddyville, Bolivar H. Cooke, John S. Bransford, Ella Hughes and Arch P. Green. Adam Woolfe, Surveyor of this Port, esterday received at the United States ustombouse a large invoice of foreign wines and liquors, one item being one hundred and ten baskets of champagne. This importation was consigned to George A. Dickel & Co., and the purchase made by M. Salzkother while in Europe.

THE BOLIVAN H. COOKE. - This bran-new steamer put in an appearance at the wharf on Sunday last, and was very much admired yesterday by the many persons who visited her. We have in a previous issue given the dimensions of this new craft for popular favor, and details as to her capacity for carrying. She is a twin sister of the Bransford, and in every respect comes up to the expectation of her owners and those interested in having a first-class boat in the upper Cumberland trade. About 11 o'clock yesterday a large mine er of our merchants and others visited the new beat upon the invitation of Col. Belivar H. Cooke, after whom she was named, and for an hour or more the cabin was the cene of social enjoyment. Champagne bottles were opened, toasts and sentiments offered, the boat and its officers complimented, and several bumpers given to the enterprising gentleman and gental host of the occasion, who to all intents and purposes was proud of his namesake and glad to see so many of his friends around him. After duly "christening" the new boat, a number of the party visited the other boats in port, and paid their respects especially to

THE SHIPPERS OWN-Another new cat recently built by Capt. Ryman for the upper Cumberland trade, and in port for the first time. What we have said about the Bolivar H. Cooke can falso be said about the Shippers' Own. She is first-class in all her appointments, and is an ornament to her owners and the trade for which she was built. She is of very light draught, and can no doubt carry more freight for her inches than any boat that ever stemmed the Cumberland. She is substantially built, with a bundsomely-furnished cabin, and will be an acceptable craft to the traveling The new steamer Bolivar H. Cooke has accommodations for sixty passengers. Every shipping point from Nashville to the head of the river is represented in letters over the state-room doors. W. E. Byers is the Captain of the Cooke, one of the most popular men on the river, with Johnny Harper, an accomplished scribe and worthy gentleman, in charge of the office. The Eddyville and John S. Bransford departed to-day for the upper Cumberland. The Shippers' Own is up for Louisville and Cincinnati Wednesday Capt. W. A. Peebles, familiarly known as Lord Palmerston, made his appearance in marine circles yesterday, and was pleased to notice the goodly number of boats that were at our wharf.
